Abstract

- A novel two-stage clamp used in testing a device-under-test (DUT) is herein presented. The two-stage clamp provides two sequential actuations
- via one linear force, and includes clamps moving in multiple different directions. The two-stage clamp uniquely uses the DUT being clamped to
- provide the linkage and timing for the two-stage actuation of clamps moving in three different directions.